Carver-Price School News

Hello Readers! We are very glad to be back in school and are looking for a most profitable year. All students here immediately settled down to work and the regular school program of assignments. We like to see that, students. We cannot begin our news without mentioning wonderful vacations spent by our taudents. Each person this summer had interesting experiences to relate to their classmates.

Reporters for our column this year are Sarah V. Harvey and Ella J. Chambers of the Senior Class. Willie Lilly is Circulation Manager. This is the yearly project of the Senior English Class.

Reporters from other classes who write homeroom news are: Gloria Jenkins and Viola Johnson, eleventh grade; Mary Goode and Clara Ferguson, tenth grade; Pearl Jones and Paul McCoy, ninth grade; Gayzetta McCain and Shirley Megginson, eighth grade. We are looking forward for interesting news from these able reporters.

We are glad to welcome our teachers back and the new teachers added to the staff. New instructors are: Miss Mabel Braxton, First Grade, a graduate of Virginia Union University; Mrs. Gaynelle Lee, Second Grade, a graduate of Bluefield State Teachers College; Miss Martha Venable, Sixth Grade, Virginia Union; Miss Hazetlan Robinson, Sixth Grade, Bluefield State Teachers College; Miss Eddy Mae Betts, Business and English, Bennett College; and Miss Elaine Lawhorne, Office Clerk, Campbell County High School.

Those instructors attending summer school were: Mrs. Theresa Hamlet, Virginia State College; Hester B. Stephens and Mrs. Theda M. Harris, Virginia State College; Mrs. Celestine Beaseley, Loyola University; Mr. James H. Clay, Columbia University; Miss Martha Venable, Union University, and Miss Naomi Early, Columbia University.

We are happy to have Mrs. Frankie Hale re-join our staff, as she was out due to illness the month of May last year.

Cossie McCoy, Valedictorian of the Class of 1954, left Monday, September 13, for Virginia State College, where she will major in Elementary Education. Scholarships won by this promising student amount to $400.00.

We welcome into our midst two new students Gayzetta McCain, a former student of Dunbar High School in Lynchburg, who is an eighth grader and resides with our Supervisor, Mrs. Mozella J. Price; and Gladys Watkins, from Baltimore, who is a ninth grader and a niece of Mrs. Theresa Hamlet.

Interesting places our students went this summer are: Edward Lilly and Willie Lilly, who spent the summer months in New York City. These two seniors visited the Polo Grounds to see the New York Giants in action. They are baseball players themselves. Gloria Jenkins, Henretta Ferguson and Shirley Johnson spent their vacation in Baltimore. Kathleen Walker and Roberta Lewis spent theirs in New York. These students are eleventh graders. Celia Harvey of the ninth grade, spent a month in Baltimore and Washington. Leon Turner, Senior, worked for Jamerson Brothers and mentioned to us an interesting trip to New Jersey in the line of duty.

The eighth graders have elected officers to guide them through the year. They are: President: Rufus Haskins; Vice-President, Myrtle Ferguson; Secretary, Shirley Megginson; Asst. Sec., Martha Hancock; Treasurer, Maggie Ferguson; Chaplain, John Minnifield; Sponsor, Mrs. Ora W. Smith. With the help of officers and committees appointed they plan to be a busy homeroom.

Principal R. E. Patrick, who was busy with plans for us during the summer months is pleased with the way things are progressing here at Carver-Price. We like the schedule of classes, courses offered, instructors, and the clean building, particularly the beautiful gym floor and paint on the locker room floors. Our principal reports the enrollment as follows:

Elementary: 263
High School, 149
Total: 412.

Until next week, our quote for guidance during the week:

"Through zeal knowledge is gotten, through lack of zeal knowledge is lost; let a man who knows this double path of gain and loss thus place himself that knowledge may grow."

WRESTLING TONIGHT IN LYNCHBURG

Lynchburg, Sept. 13.- Freddie Blassie, Southern heivyweight wrestling champ, faces a stiff test in the retention of his title on Thursday night when he meets Roughhouse Jack O'Brien in a cnamplonship match at Lynchburg's City Armory.

Blassie, a native of St. Louis, Mo. who is now making his home in Hollywood, has been successful in defending his title here but may have trouble with O'Brien.

O'Brien gained his shot at the champ after defeating Mexican Badman Charro Aztex at the Armory earlier this month.

O'Brien and his Texas partner Lou Plummer, are the undisputed Texas tag team champs.

In the semi-final match, Chick Garabaldi, one of the famous wrestling Garabaldis, faces Firpo Zybsko of Minneapolis.

In the one fall opener, Don Martin, of Hazard, Ky., will meet the Swedish Angel.

BURLEY TOBACCO

It will pay burley growers to keep their tobacco cay on the stalk until it is mature, says C. E. Hood, associate agronomist at VPI.

He points out that a high percentage of burley tobacco producers — and cigarette manufacturers want ripe burley, but if normal conditions tobacco will have to be cut about 20 to 25 days before it was topped, if all plants were topped when 3/4 of them showed bloom.

Generally it will pay producers to cut the two top nockets until they begin to ripen, then you start to cut your tobacco. This practice will usually cause the tobacco to ripen more uniformly and better, and have a lower moisture content.

Don't cut your tobacco until the bottom leaves turn yellow and begin to fire around the edges instead, prime 2 to 3 leaves at a time, to cut until the middle and upper leaves are ripe. You will usually increase your tobacco income from $100 to $150 per acre by cutting one or two times.

FRUIT BREEDING, TESTING CONTINUES AT VPI EXPERIMENT STATION

Prospects are good for new varieties of early ripening, firm-fleshed peach varieties for Virginia as a result of research at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station.

Scientists there say they are trying to develop such peaches which will ripen from five weeks to one week ahead of Alberta, and that considerable progress is being made. These peaches would enable Virginia growers to market their crop before the heavy movment of Elbertas causes the price to drop.

Two promising yellow clingstone peaches for canning have been developed, and seem superior to Amhergem. And two new nectarines, Redchief and Cavalier, were named and released this year.

Progress is also being made in grape-breeding work. The greatest need in this section of the country, the researchers say, is for varieties which will mature properly under warm climatic conditions, and which will be resistant to cracking and diseases. Several promising varieties have been developed at VPI.

One important project of the fruit breeding section is the search for mild seedling cherry types which produce desirable friut, and which are adapted to Virginia. Many wild cherries are found on farms through out the Piedmont and mountain sections of the state. Two promising specimens have been found. One is a black firm-fleshed cherry, the other a red semi-firm-fleshed sort. The researchers believe this project will result in some cherries which will make it profitable to expand the industry in Virginia.

FALL ARMYWORM OUTBREAKS ARE REPORTED IN VA.

Outbreaks of fall armyworms are being reported from widely separated parts of Virginia, and damage by them is expected to increase.

Outbreaks have occurred in Botetourt, Fauquier, Green and Southampton Counties. The chances are that the insect is damaging crops in many other counties, but that the infestations have not yet been discovered, Arthur P. Morris, associate entomologist at VPI, says.

Infestations of the fall armyworm as a rule are not discovered until the larvae are quite large and have done heavy damage to some of the crops. Checking pastures, cereals, and forage crops now and finding the infestations while the caterpillars are still small can prevent much damage. Control is easier when the worms are small.

Morris also reports:

Alfalfa insect infestations are persistent, but no great population changes have occurred during the past week. Walnut caterpillar infestations have increased to the point that they are attracting attention.

Suckflies are reported damaging tobacco in Pittsylvania County; and chicken mite infestations are heavy enough to cause concern in some areas.

The golden nematode survey has been completed for the year, and no infestations were found in Virginia potato - and tomato-growing areas.

The Y. M. C. A. was founded in 1844.
